
JRC launches a new web-based platform on the Innovation Union: the I³S

The Joint Research Centre (JRC) launched the I³S, a new online application that gathers all the information on the Innovation Union, separating it in accordance with the different 34 commitments made in the Innovation Union Communication. Several of these commitments concern or are related to intellectual property and therefore you may find this new tool very useful to check the main issues being discussed at the European level and up to date information.

According to the JRC, in the near future this platform will be complemented by another platform focused on the research and innovation policies in the EU Member States, Associated Countries and several third countries.
