EuroNanoForum 2019 stands as the most significant European forum that brings together scientists, industrialists and policy makers. The European IP Helpdesk will be present with a booth.

The event is anticipating approx. 1000 participants from Europe and across the globe and offers opportunities for discussion on cross-sectoral challenges focusing on both the industrial application of research results and future strategic research priorities in the area of Nanotechnology and Advanced Materials of the Horizon 2020 NMBP Programme and beyond.

EuroNanoForum 2019 at a glance:

- Europe's largest networking conference focusing on nanotechnologies and advanced material science, innovation and business;
- Open to the scientific community, representative from industry, research and innovation and policy makers;
- Offers excellent opportunities to debate on cutting edge research and successful industrial implementations in the field.
